

Annual Opening Day for Trail & The El Dorado Trails Project Ribbon Cutting

This past Saturday, March 28th, was the 3rd Annual Opening Day for Trails! This is a day organized by the rails-to-trails conservancy (<http://www.railstotrails.org/opening-day-for-trails>) where people across the nation celebrate the spring trail season by heading out to their favorite trail. Omni-Means participated in this year's event by celebrating one of our favorite trails.

What is one of Omni-Means favorite trails? The El Dorado Trail, in Placerville! Saturday was the Ribbon Cutting Ceremony and Community Bike Ride and Walk to celebrate the completion of a new section of the El Dorado Trails Project, Segment 1 - from Ray Lawyer Drive and Forni Road to Main Street in Placerville.

The City of Placerville was the lead agency, Omni-Means was the design engineer and Breneman, Inc. was the construction contractor.

El Dorado Trails Project Segment 1 Ribbon Cutting

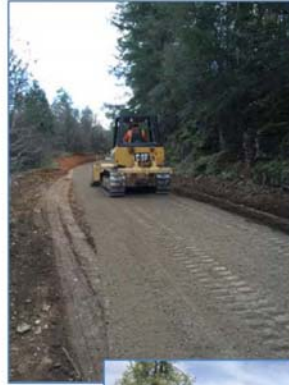

Segment 2, Clay Street to Bedford Avenue was also designed by Omni-Means and Constructed by Breneman, Inc. This segment is currently under construction almost completed. See the photos below.

The El Dorado Trail is a 36 mile trail that runs from Camino to just south of Folsom. If you have a chance, we encourage you to ride the two newest segments of the trail. For more information of the trail, visit the rails-to-trails website, <http://www.trailink.com/trail/el-dorado-trail.aspx>.
